	Examiner Camtu T. Nguyen	Art Unit 3743

-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 4-10 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim cannot depend from any other multiple dependent claim. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims 4-10 have not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 thru 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kemp (International Publication No. WO/39945). Kemp discloses in Figure 6 a stimulator comprising projections (3a) and indentations (2a) on the surface of the sleeve (1). Kemp teaches that the sealed indentations (2) can act as a fluid containing cells and the cells are sealed with a thin fluid-tight adhesive layer thereon and when place the sleeve in use the layer is rupture to collapse the fluid contained in the cell causing the fluid therein to flow on to the surface of the sleeve (page 5). With regards to claim 2, Kemp discloses in Figure 1 a channel (5) disposed towards the open end of the sleeve (1) and the channel (5) is filled with a lubricant fluid and is sealed in the manner to that used for the indentations (2a). Kemp further discloses the sleeve is particularly useful in the treatment of female sexual arousal disorder (FSAD) and the fluid composition which includes a substance having vasodilatory properties. When the sleeve is pressed against the clitoris the vasodilator fluid is released and the effect is dilation of the local arterial blood supply vessels which causes clitoral engorgement and automatic lubrication (page 6).

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Crosby et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,737,084). Crosby discloses a composition and methods for treating female sexual response. Column 5 lines 29-50 discloses a composition administered by a condom by applying the composition to the condom prior to use in combination with other lubricants. Crosby further discloses that the same composition can further comprise other active agents including vasodilators agents which increase vaginal lubrication).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Crosby et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,737,084). Crosby et al, above, discloses all elements recited in these claim. With regards to claim 2, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to dispose the composition near the opening of a condom as such would be in the area of contact that is in the vicinity of clitoris.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
